YANDELL-GUGENHEIM CO.

CRITTENDEN COUNTY'S WONDERFUL PROSPERITY

Her Mining Industry Reflected in Large Bank Deposits—Lead Ore in Trigg County—Our Two Railroad Spurs for Ore Hauling.

GAMBLING ON THE STOCK EXCHANGE

The increase of cash deposits in our two Marion banks reflect in a very positive manner the general prosperity that our county of Crittenden enjoys. The capitalization of these banks is small compared with the great volume of business transacted. The Marion Bank, with a capital of $20,000, earned the last fiscal year something over 30 per cent. and will from the present outlook increase that earning materially the present year. The last sale of its stock at $210 per share of $100 shows the trend of events so far as its management and financial status is concerned.

Near Gracey, in Trigg county, and but a short, pleasant ride from Cordele Springs, a most promising vein of galena-lead ore is being prospected by Mr. J. J. Boynton of Princeton. In the original shaft, which is down some 40 feet, a rather remarkable body of lead ore has been laid bare. This vein is very similar in make-up to the more prominent lead mines of the southwest, differing only in its being vertical or in a fissure as distinguished from the horizontal or blanket deposits of Missouri. The lead ore was encountered in rather large masses, next to the hanging wall, at about 8 feet depth. This solid galena has increased in width and continued the entire distance, and at 40 feet beside the solid galena there is fully 40 inches of disseminated lead ore in a yellow or carbonate of lead dirt. This disseminated ore is in particles from the size of a buckshot to a large sized marble, and we should judge could be separated from the dirt by simply using a screen.

This vein of ore is not far from Hopkinsville, a city that has given several of its best business men to us. Hopkinsville is to be congratulated over the discovery if its citizens are at all alive to the very great importance of the lead industry.

The gambling game that has been in progress on the New York Stock Exchange for some months past does not seem to have the least effect upon the legitimate industries of the country. The time has passed when this faro game, with engraved certificates as "chips," is looked upon by genuine merchants as anything but a game of chance with a "crooked dealer" behind the layout. Indeed, the New York stock exchange has fallen into disrepute, and whether stocks are up or down the producers and manufacturers of America care but little, regarding the Pierpont Morgans, the Gates', father and son, and the whole raft of lesser fry with an indifference that savors strongly of contempt.

Out at the Farmer property, operated by the Henderson company, carbonate of zinc in the second opening south of the pond is exceedingly strong. An open cut possibly 25 feet long and 20 feet deep carries a body of carbonate that exceeds anything in magnitude in the district, with the possible exception of the initial work on the Old Jim. This cut is some 20 feet deep, the breast of ore in the south end at the top being four feet, rapidly widening as depth was made, and shows 12 feet at the bottom. The side hill on which this cut was made leads into still higher ground and every probability points to a very extensive body as the ore veins widen rapidly southward.

The attempt of the miners to organize a labor union at Rose Claire was met by Capt. Thomas, superintendent of the mine, by a "lockout." The property is now idle, except that the water is kept pumped from the shafts. Some 60 employees are resting on their oars awaiting the result of the usual backing and filling between labor and capital,

Last Saturday there was paid over the counters of our Marion banks, in sums ranging from $5 to $60, something in excess of $19,000. This is but one of the many paydays that have become common in this city. This money permeates to every corner of the county, being received for mining ore, transportation of ores, and the various branches of the mining industry. Two companies only were represented in this distribution of cash. There is scarcely a Monday or Saturday during the year that some one more of our mining companies do not utilize in paying their labor rolls.

The Lucile mining company are running a level on their vein of fluor spar and zinc ore at a depth of 115 feet. Several cars of fluor spar have recently been shipped from this property, the zinc ore being piled up awaiting the proper machinery for its concentration. With stoping ground opened the yield of ore should be materially augmented and the value of the property decidedly increased. Its situation on the railroad near the Marion station gives this mine most decided advantages, in the matter of transportation for the present at least, over nearly all of our productive properties.

The early building of two spurs by the I. C. railroad through the productive mining regions of this and Livingston county is practically assured. The route taken by one will be from Mexico, a station some eight miles south of Marion, touching at the Hedge mine, the Stevens fire clay deposit, and the Culver mine, the terminus being Salem. The other will run from Marion down through the Reed Mining company's property, to the Columbia mine, Crittenden Springs, and the Old Jim and Lady Farmer mines.

The Columbia mine is working to the full capacity of its concentrating plant, and is turning out some four tons of high grade zinc blende and one ton of lead per day. The weekly output will amount to some eleven hundred dollars, or at the rate of $57,000 per annum.

The Pittsburg Mining company working the Eddie Hedge vein of fluor spar has already shipped two car loads of that material and have 50,000 to 60,000 pounds at their shipping point, ready to load. They are making deliveries at Crayeville.

Major Clement, it is understood has under consideration a bid for 49 per cent. of the Clement mine, near Crittenden Springs, made by a company of gentlemen interested in this county but residing in Morganfield. The proposition covers the entire mining, separating and smelting of the Clement ore, and will necessitate the expenditure of several hundred thousand dollars.

Mr. Joel Farmer exhibits handsome high grade sulphide of zinc from the opening near Osserville, operated by the Ohio Valley Mining company. Mr. Farmer states that in the bottom of the shaft the vein of ore is eleven feet in width. A concentrating plant ought to be established on such a showing and shipments made before the Christmas holidays.

The Crittenden Coal and Coke company are pushing their work at Sturgis, with three eight hour shifts of miners. The tipple is well under way towards completion, and the possibilities of getting the entire works in a productive shape at an earlier date than Manager Sayre hoped for is very promising.

The Holly mine, of the Mineral Point Zinc company at its extreme depth, has increased its pay streak to fully three feet of zinc sulphide, galena and fluor spar. Mr. Persons, the superintendent, is naturally becoming enthusiastic over deep mining in this district.

COL. BELKNAP.

In his speeches Col. Morris B. Belknap, the Republican candidate for Governor, has made and is making a serious reflection upon the women and the men of Kentucky, who are known the world over as the truest, the best, the most hospitable and the most chivalrous. In his opening speech at Munfordsville Col. Belknap made this startling statement:

"Our young men are now hearing what manner of men those old time Kentuckians were, and from them comes the demand upon us for civic conditions that will restore to them their birthright. We can not stop our ears to the call, and with us now lies the responsibility of making this State a fit place for our sons and daughters to live in."

This statement shows that Col. Belknap has indeed a poor opinion of the people of his own State. He says that Kentucky is no fit State in which to rear boys and girls. Col. Belknap is probably the only person who has ever made such an expression concerning the old Commonwealth.

The citizens of this State have always prided themselves upon their "old Kentucky home" and Col. Belknap is the first person on record who ever said that Kentucky was no place to rear boys and girls.

GREAT RAPIDITY.

In Track Laying All Along Tennessee Central Line.

Two weeks ago, when General Manager Clarke announced that trains would be running between Hopkinsville and Nashville on the Tennessee Central railroad, the statement was not taken seriously. But two weeks of work has greatly changed the outlook and the announcement now that an extension of five days is all that is asked for.

To begin with, the track from this end has been laid seven miles to a point on the Wheeler farm. Six miles was laid last week and at this rate Oak Grove will be reached in five more working days. But the road is advancing from the other end and it is probable that the two ends will meet this side of Oak Grove. At any rate the whole line to Clarksville will be laid by the 15th. The cut between Oak Grove is getting along rapidly and will not delay much. It is officially announced from Nashville that the bridge over the Cumberland river below Nashville will be completed so that trains may be operated between Nashville and Clarksville by Oct. 20.

This being true, and making all allowances necessary for accidents and for bad weather, we may confidently expect to see through trains running from here to Nashville by Nov. 1.

The bridge over the Canton pike near this city is now up and the approaches regraded. As soon as the elevated roadbed is metalized the pike will be ready for travel over the crossing.

At the Cox mill crossing a temporary bridge spans the turnpike, which will later be replaced by a permanent one.

COLORADO LETTER.

Former Kentucky Girl Writes Interestingly of the Wonders of Colorado.

To one who has spent their entire life in old Kentucky and goes to the sameness of scenes and associations, the change when one is landed at the foot of the snow capped peaks of the Rockies is awe inspiring. I left Marion in the afternoon of August 8th under the heat of the sun that sent its rays down as though it was near the tropics, and the seeming sameness continued while I was traveling through Indiana, Illinois and Missouri until I gained my first glimpse of the snow capped peaks at the foot of which was to be my future home. Reread up as I had been on the "old farm" under the watchful care of fond, loving and indulgent parents, you can imagine how hard it was to break these ties of child and womanhood, and make a trip alone of nearly 1,400 miles, to marry the man I loved. And when that face came to view under the glare of the electric lights at the Union depot, Pueblo, Colorado, on Monday night at 9:30 August 10th, I knew my long journey was near an end. In less than half an hour I was the bride of a man who has been raised up among these rugged mountains, and who took pride in pointing out the places of interest to me. The next day we took an afternoon train for Salida, a hundred miles farther west, and I just know I never will again see such awe inspiring sights as I witnessed as we passed through the Royal Gorge of the Arkansas river just west of Canyon City. Here the canyon narrows down until it is so narrow that in one place there was not room enough to build a railroad, and the track is suspended in the air by iron trusses reaching from one wall to the other. The walls of the canyon here are perpendicular, reaching up from the river bed from one to two thousand feet high. The track was as crooked as a grape vine. We had secured a good position to view the canon and watched the engine as it rounded the curves, and I thought my time had come sure when that engine would come to view from around some curve and seemingly shoot into the mountain again. And as we neared Salida that range of mountains that divides the waters of the Atlantic and Pacific looked as though they were not to exceed a mile away. Yet, I was told they were 12 or 15 miles distant. And now as I sit here in my little mountain home looking out of the window to the west, those snow capped peaks of the Rockies, which seem to be only a stone's throw away are from 25 to 40 miles distant and you can hardly imagine my delight in the early morning to look out to the west and see the sun shining on those peaks with a glow of brilliancy long before it casts its rays over the beautiful little mining town of Turret—my home. We are coming back there some day, then I can tell my dear old Kentucky friends in person what the pen fails to picture.

TEACHERS WANTED.

The civil service commission has just received a call from the Philippine government for 150 male teachers, with salaries as follows: Twenty-five at $1,200; seventy at $1,000, and fifty at $800 per annum. It is desired to secure these teachers without unnecessary delay, and an examination will be held in Kentucky on October 19 and 20, at Lexington, Louisville and Paducah, and at Evansville, Ind.

Teachers appointed are eligible for promotion to the higher grades of the service, the salaries ranging from $900 to $2,000 for teachers and from $1,500 to $2,500 for division superintendents. The commission suggests that those who apply for this examination should be devoted to their profession and conscientious, energetic and successful workers.

For application blanks and further information concerning the scope of the examination, transportation, conditions of employment, etc., applicant should apply to the United States civil service commission, Washington, D. C.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident is narrated by John Oliver of Philadelphia, as follows: "I was in an awful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite, growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Then I was advised to use Electric Bitters; to my great joy, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents, guaranteed at Woods & Orme drugstore.

UP TO THE PRESIDENT.

Of course there will be no "next treaty" with Colombia for an isthmian canal. It is hardly to be assumed that the President will fail to carry out the mandate of the Spooner act, which directs him under the conditions that have arisen, to reopen negotiations with Nicaragua and Costa Rica for the acquirement of the right of way for a canal in the Nicaragua route. As Mr. Watterson himself says, "time's up, Mr. President." Failure to reopen negotiations with Nicaragua and Costa Rica would indicate that Mr. Watterson's accusation may not be without foundation. Of course, some of the Senators who have advocated the selection of the Panama route for the proposed canal will indignantly deny that Mr. Watterson's charge has any foundation in fact. The best way for them to show that they are without sin in this matter is to put no obstruction in the way of carrying out the instructions of the Spooner act. But so far as that act is concerned, it is the President's business to put it into effect. He has been instructed by Congress as to what to do, and he should go ahead and do it. He will put himself in a bad light if he does not.—Rochester Union and Advertiser.

Master Your Own Business.

Franklin Farrel, Jr., of Ansonia, Conn., has gone to work in his father's foundry at a salary of $4 per week. His father is a millionaire tool manufacturer, and Frank has begun at the bottom as a tool sharpener. Being asked why he, a millionaire's son, has gone to work at manual labor, he replied: "Wealth is no excuse for idleness."

"But why didn't you go into your father's office instead of a greasy shop at $4 a week?" The young man said he wanted to learn the trade before he attempted to direct its operations. "The men who make the inventions, the men who make it possible for America to beat the world in manufacturing are the practical mechanics."

He was further asked how it felt for a university graduate and a man of wealth to take orders from a mechanic. "How shall I give orders some day if I do not take them now? Would General Grant have been able to command men had he not, when a young soldier, groomed his own horse?"

Splendid! The industrial supremacy of this country is in no danger as long as the Franklin Farmers are engaged. This young American is not above his business. He will master it in all details, so as when he is at the head of it the business will not master him.

In this connection an incident of J. J. Hill, the railroad magnate. A wreck occurred on the road the other day. Mr. Hill was in his special car with other officials. He took off his coat and assumed command of the wrecking operations. He not only directed, but heaved with the crew putting his shoulder to the obstacles. The wreck was soon cleared away.

Mr. Hill knew what to do. He had mastered his business. It is said he knows more about the use of railroad than all the other officials put together. In consequence he has introduced economies which make it possible to pay dividends where other railroad men said dividends are impossible.

Master your own business young man! If a millionaire's son can not afford to take chances with knowing every detail of his factory, how can you, a poor boy, hope to succeed by less energetic effort?

If J. J. Hill, with all his money, must know everything about his business, how can you hope to get on by slip-shod methods? The old law of the survival of the fittest holds. The ignorant and inefficient go to the rear. The masters go to the front. St. Louis Chronicle.

LACES.

The very extravagant use of lace on the toilettes worn at notable public functions of social and interest in Paris recently gives assurance of their continued vogue through the winter for the dressy gowns. The popularity of colored laces seems to be on the increase. Laces of all kinds dyed to match the color of the gowns have been found to be extremely effective, and especially so when they are inserted over a lining of contrasting color. Jackets and shoulder capes of lace dyed in this manner will be used exclusively, and cream of Paris color laces with another color introduced in their design will be seen. Filmy lace in frills and flounces such as Chantilly, point d'Alencon and point de Venise will decorate house and evening gowns.

BONE FOOD

Soft and crooked bones mean bad feeding. Call the disease rickets if you want to. The growing child must eat the right food for growth. Bones must have bone food, blood must have blood food and so on through the list.

Scott's Emulsion is the right treatment for soft bones in children. Little doses everyday give the stiffness and shape that healthy bones should have.

Bow legs become straighter, loose joints grow stronger and firmness comes to the soft heads.

Wrong food caused the trouble. Right food will cure it.

In thousands of cases Scott's Emulsion has proven to be the right food for soft bones in childhood.

MR. J. H. CLIFTON

Writes an Entertaining Letter to The Press.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct 13, 1903.—
Eric Press. I received the Press this morning and you can not imagine how glad I was to receive it! It was like a long letter from home and I read it all and Mayor Blue's welcome address to the conference is hard to beat; in fact I can not see how it could have been any better.

Well, I am improving very nicely now, and think I will soon beat home all right. And now I want to tell you something about the World's Dispensary and Surgical Institute.

They have a very large brick hotel, five stories high, over one hundred rooms in it, well furnished, lit up by electricity heated by steam and all the modern conveniences. The table is well supplied and will compare most favorably with the best hotels in the country, and the house is kept as neat and clean as it is possible to keep a house.

They have sixteen physicians and surgeons here, and trained nurses, male and female. They treat their patients with electricity, x-rays, and turkish baths besides the medicines they give and the surgical operations they perform if necessary; and one would have to be here to see for himself to believe the cures that are performed here and the people going home well, leaving here nearly every day, and others coming in. You can see people here from every State in the Union and from Mexico and Canada. It is a wonderful institution and a great benefit to the afflicted, and I would say to those that are afflicted that have failed to get relief at home, to come to Buffalo, N. Y., to the World's Dispensary and Surgical Institute and I believe if there is any relief for you in earth you will receive it there, and you will be treated nice and kind there by every one, and I want to say in conclusion that it has not been my lot thus far to meet a finer, cleverer set of gentlemen than every one connected with this institution. They try to make every one feel at home and as comfortable as possible, and they have all the modern appliances for the treatment of disease and sixteen physicians to consult, and you know the old saying that two heads are better than one, then how about sixteen heads?

Yours truly,
J. H. CLIFTON

An Animal Story For Little Folks

... How the Rooster Learned a Lesson

There was a rooster that was so large that a boy hitched him up to a wagon and drove him up and down the road.

"Ah!" exclaimed the rooster. "It is much nicer to be a horse than a rooster I shall always be a horse."

And he felt very proud indeed of his new accomplishment.

When night came, his master put a halter on him and led him in a regular horse stall and gave him an armful of hay and a bucket of water for his supper.

DOVE HIM UP AND DOWN THE ROAD

Mr. Rooster made an effort to make a meal of these, but without success nor was he able to sleep standing up there in the stall.

When his master came through the stable to see if all was well the rooster said:

"Please, sir, I don't think I like being a horse. Please let me be a rooster again."

And his master was a good person and granted his request.—Atlanta Constitution.

Answer to last week's puzzle: "You should advise him to stay single and set the tie up."

The only correct answer received was from Frankie Canran Stephens, of Dayton, age eight years.

Good answers were received from Stella Dodson, Marion;

Nellie Walker, Iron Hill;

Willie Walker, Iron Hill.

HIS FIRST DAY AT SCHOOL.

She lost her little boy today.

Her eyes were moist and sweet

And tender, when he went away

To hurry down the street.

She stood there for the longest while

And watched and watched him; then

She said—and tried to force a smile

"He'll not come back again."

Inside the house her tears would come.

She sank into a chair

And sobbed above the battered drum

And trumpeted lying there.

The sunshine stole into the place

It only made her sad

With thinking of the pretty grace

His baby tresses had.

She minded all his little ways;

She went to see his crib

Up in the attic; then to gaze

At platter, spoon and bib,

And all the trinkets he had thought

So fair to look upon

Each one of them this murmur brought

"My little boy has gone."

She wandered through the house all day

To come on things he'd left.

And oh! she missed his romping play

And she felt herself bereft!

When he came home, with shining eyes

To tell of school's delight,

She kissed and held him motherwise

With something of alarm

This is the pain in mothers hearts

When school days have begun;

Each knows the little boy departs

And baby days are done;

Each mother fain would close her ears

And hush the calling bell,

For, somehow, in its tone she hears

The sounding of a knell.

JUST A Few Facts!

This is a season that you cannot close your eyes and buy your goods, believing that you are getting some old goods at some old prices. Prices may be same, BUT LOOK OUT FOR QUALITY. Cotton is higher than it's been for many years— all kinds of cotton goods have advanced and many staple lines are so scarce that cannot get them at even a big advance. There will be many inferior goods sold to meet old prices. That's one way of meeting them you know— cutting the quality. Many months ago we fore-saw this and began preparing for it by going direct to headquarters and buying all of our cotton goods, underwear, flannels, outing cloths etc.

And now we have the goods— lots of them and with the quality right there. And they are all bought at bottom figures. Many of them far less money than ever before. Now we propose to set the pace in prices. You know we've done this in the past and we'll do it now.

The best stock in Crittenden county to select from, and not one cents advance on a single thing.

So sure as you came to see us so sure we'll save you money.

Caldwell county Democrats ought to be ashamed to hold their heads up after the election in November if they allow Judge J. F. Gordon to be beaten for circuit judge or Hon. J. L. Grayot commonwealth's attorney for Princeton district. Gordon is a neighbor and a most excellent judge.

In municipal affairs the people watch their mayor and councilmen. If the councilman is progressive and believes in public improvements, the people soon "get a move" on themselves and all are in harmony. What we want is a council that will continue the good work of street metalizing, putting in good crossings or stepping stones.

Now let the people,—the property holders—by they councilmen or otherwise, follow in the footsteps of the city and put down sidewalks where needed. Public safety and comfort demand it. Who'll be the first?

That section of Pennsylvania near Easton, and of New Jersey around Patterson and Trenton has been devastated by a flood, the like of which was never known since the days of Noah. Millions of dollars damage was done, bridges swept away, houses wrecked, and desolation widespread. The flood now is subsiding and the rainbow of hope has appeared to the stricken people.

To show the confidence which the stockholders in the Belknap Hardware Company have in Kentucky, under a Democratic administration, it may be stated that its capital stock has recently been increased from $1,000,000 to $2,500,000. If it had not been safe to invest in Kentucky, under a Democratic administration, such a good business man as Col. Belknap's friends claim that he is, would not have done so.

Judge Gordon is making an admirable record as circuit judge, and will be accorded a rousing majority in November. As judge of the court he does not know anybody and does not attempt to play politics. He goes right ahead about transacting the business of the court, dealing courteously but firmly with the attorneys, and forges business along. He is the right man in the right place, and the people of the district do not propose to let politics or any other consideration prevent an endorsement of his splendid record on the bench.—Hustler.

Example is followed generally. A child will do what its parent does; a daughter many times is the image of her mother, if not in face in habit and ways, and likewise a son will frequently partake of the habits of his father.

So it is in business. A clerk will follow the example of his employer. A layman will watch his pastor and will try to emulate his example.

So it is all over the world.

In municipal affairs the people watch their mayor and councilmen. If the councilman is progressive and believes in public improvements, the people soon "get a move" on themselves and all are in harmony. What we want is a council that will continue the good work of street metalizing, putting in good crossings or stepping stones.

Now let the people,—the property holders—by they councilmen or otherwise, follow in the footsteps of the city and put down sidewalks where needed. Public safety and comfort demand it. Who'll be the first?

NEW COUNCILMEN

As the election draws near the people should study over the composition of their town trustees. It seems eminently fair for each section of the town to be represented. East Marion should be encouraged. North Marion should be recognized. West and South Marion should be still represented by good citizens.

Marion has outgrown her present boundaries in every direction, and the corporate limits should be extended. Many of our best citizens are without the conveniences and protection which they desire, and are willing to pay for. Some people with vacant lots or unimproved property probably might say, "Let's go slow, and that's good advice and we have followed it. Marion has gone along steadily. No mushroom growth but a solid, substantial growth, which the council should encourage, by extending its jurisdiction and reaching out its protecting arms, North, East, South and West, to shelter those who have added to Marion's prosperity and population, and who will in future bear their share of its responsibilities. We need a board as progressive as the last one, who will continue the good work of street improvements started by them, and who will continue to "hold up the hands" of the "guardian of peace", and thus encourage him to continue in his work and be the feared of all evildoers. In fact every citizen of the city is interested in the council. Let's make no mistakes, but if we should decide on any changes, be sure we are right and are improving the board. The election is only three weeks off.

"Fame and fortune!" Every body is looking for them. Why do so few obtain them? For the reason that the qualifications for the desired results are left out of our lives. We use up our time in foolishness and allow others to step in and take our places and do the work we should do. Some young men and women, too, for that matter, idle away their time, when they should be busy attending to their duties or studies. Will it pay?

Mental activity is the architect which builds things in the physical place. Whether you are aware of it or not, you are exercising this power. Every day you live you are building something about you, and time alone will disclose the nature of your work, whether it will prove to be an abode like unto a castle builded on a rock, or only the ruins of what might have been. In your case which shall it be? It rests with you to make choice.

MR. R. C. WALKER

In Colorado and is Pleased With The Country.

TRAVELED OVER THE ENTIRE STATE

Every day numerous inquiries regarding Mr. R. C. Walker, who is traveling the West are made, and in hundreds of frames throughout this section of the State are interested in his movements. Mr. Walker has been in Colorado two weeks and has visited every section of this wonderful State, and in every letter to the relatives at home he has spoken highly of the beauty and richness of the country, and its marvelous climate. He thinks the State has a wonderful future. Indications of prosperity and progress are to be seen on every hand. Mr. Walker and Mr. John T. Franks have made their headquarters, and have made return trips from that city, sometimes accompanied by their old friend and resident of Marion, Mr. J. H. Hilliard, who now resides in Denver. They visited many splendid towns and cities in the Southern and Northern portion of the State, and were favorably impressed with nearly all of them. Last week Mr. Walker left Mr. Franks at Denver and made a tour to the Western portion of the State. At Glenwood Springs he decided to visit some frontier towns, somewhat off his regular route, and he tells of this trip in the following, a portion of a letter to his family.

MARION, Colo., Oct. 6, 1903.

New Castle, on the Grande, below Greenwood is now a deserted town, and could not be considered as a possibility in my search for a home. The next town is Rifle, a village of 500 people, and not inviting. Here I took the stage for a side road across the Rockies. Left at 1 P. M., and out into the wilds, and there was a small ranch, with its little cabin and a few cattle, the road following a canyon for miles, perhaps a mile wide at some places and then narrowing down to a few hundred yards. A few miles out I saw my first coyote, and a gentleman along got a shot at him. About night fall we could hear them barking. One of the hounds gave out and we got out to walk over the divide or highest point on the route. The passengers insisted that I stay in and do the driving, but feeling so well I tried walking, in a few minutes my heart was out of place and I was panting like a lizard in August. I then got in and did the driving to the top, where we were 9,000 feet high, and then about level for 1 mile, then down grade. We stopped at a mountain house, or "dinner house," as they call it, and took supper. After chatting around the stove, into the black, cold night we resumed the journey, overcasts bottomed. Big Navajo blankets wrapped around our feet and legs we started on the 21 mile drive. Soon the wind lay and the bright moon. I never saw them her silvery sheen over the peaks and rocks that lined our road on either side. Everything was as still and motionless as the distant stars, yet nature awoke in these mighty mountains speaks a language loud, sweet and strong as new year's bells. A feeling of awe that laid me my pen to scorn came over me. It took me little of the soul of the imagination to people the mountains and little valleys again with the Indians and buffalo of a few years ago. "Now watch for deer," said the driver. Here is where they cross, coming from the higher latitudes where they stay in summer. It was a great ride for this tenderfoot. At 11 o'clock we reached the cozy little town, nestled away here in the valley of one of the prettiest little rivers I ever saw. We could see electric lights long before we reached the town, indicating to us another文明 village some 12 or 15 miles away. They had saved a room at the hotel, a bunk of it room, and fall and snow in my dreams I was at home. Saw a frontier town today. Three big houses, houses and some pretty ranches, and the old pioneer Methodist church. I left early in the morning at the crack of the early curtain. The town has a population of 1000, the county 2000 or less. You hear nothing here but cattle. Some of the ranches have big herds. They range over their entire land. It is a rich little town.

Came over with a big teamster, Col. Montgomery of Colorado Springs. He has 1200 acres his ranch is 13 miles out and he has extended an invitation to me to come and spend the day with him promising a boat or a fishing-boat will interest me. If I have the time and strength to pack I would like to visit him. I would like to go down the river 100 miles to a town in Utah, but must forego the journey. They are among aaptah and gibson in that country and heading the latter to Rifle, 12 miles. Meeting the first wagon coming over the mountains around my long me to mine again.

VALUE OF ADVERTISING.

Soon after the Methodist conference commenced and the various committees began to file their reports and turn over money to the proper treasurers the said treasurers felt the necessity of a safe place to deposit said funds. As each visitor had received a copy of the Crittenden Press with the compliments of C. S. Nunn, before coming here, and one while here with compliments of the Editor, it did not take the treasurers long to find the name of a good bank in the paper, with plenty of capital and security for all the money in the Methodist church, for that matter.

He forthwith turned his footsteps toward the Marion Bank and advised all other treasurers of funds to do so, and as a result the Marion Bank received upwards of twenty thousand dollars of deposits during conference from the visitors. Who says advertising don't pay?

The rapidly diminishing supply of hickory timber, which causes so much alarm among manufacturers of hickory products, is one to interest our people in the preservation of their hickory trees and encouraging the growth of others. Recently a meeting of manufacturers various ways and means were discussed and it was found that the association believed that if the situation was impressed on the people who own it, it would stop.

Nothing is known that will take the place of hickory, and it has

Marion people can now congratulate themselves on the prospect of an early arrangement by which they will have a better postoffice. The owner of the building now occupied by the postoffice is ready and willing to give the government two rooms instead one, and connect them by arch way. We are informed too that Judge Pierce is anxious to have the government for a tenant, also that Blue and Gugenheim want to be land lords for Uncle Sam. So it looks as if the prospects were bright. It's now up to the government to express their pleasure.

Dr. J. J. Clark and family, we hear are expecting to go to Indian Territory to spend the winter. Dr. Clark has some investments there and will look after them and spend the fall in hunting and fishing and other outdoor sports. Incidentally he may invest in any good enterprise that may come up. In the spring they will go to St. Louis and Mrs. Clark and children will probably spend some months there at the World's Fair while Dr. Clark expects to go to New York and take a post graduate course preparatory to resuming the practice of medicine. While they are away they may rent their home here as several have applied for it.

Read this notice and govern yourself accordingly. On the first of November, I have to give up the gallery to Mr. Jenkins, who has bought the building for the Press office; therefore those that want first class up to date photographs, equal to any that can be had in the cities at reasonable prices, will do well to call at once as I cannot be here any longer than that time. ROY DANIELS HELD OVER.

The examining trial of Roy Daniels last Friday resulted in his being held over to the grand jury in bond of $250. He was charged with passing a forged check on C. J. Haury, and at his trial pleaded guilty and we understand his attorneys will plead insanity. He exonerated John Burget and he was released.

Cecil Young whom he also implicated was not brought back altho he was ready and willing to come so we are informed. He is still in Evansville and has been all the time. In his case and also John Burgets, it now seems a case of old dog tray who got into bad company.

A CARD OF THANKS.

When my father, D. H. Oliver, was stricken with paralysis last summer in Marion and carried to the Gill House, I was much affected and distressed at his suffering and all the kind acts of friends and strangers at that time were noticed by me and highly appreciated. I did not say much at the time as the hand of death soon relieved him and ended his suffering, but I intended to speak to each one, I find I can't do that but will thank all and ask God to bless you, especially Mrs. Gill, who was tireless in her attention, and Mr. R. C. Walker, my father's employer, who did all a kind thoughtful man could do. May heaven bless all the good people who came to my aid in that hour of trouble. W. A. OLIVER.

TWO GRAND AND GOOD OLD MEN.

Uncle Harvey Travis, of the Trade water country, near Crowell postoffice, visited the Press office Wednesday. He is rich in reminiscences of the days of long ago and talks entertainingly of the Mexican war and other events of that period. He was born in 1816, Dec. 5th, in this county, but at that time it was part of Livingston county. He joined the Masons Aug. 3, 1839 at Princeton, the lodge being Clinton lodge. He was a charter member of Bingham Lodge No. 263 of this place. His son, Mr. A. H. Travis, is our jailer and one of our best citizens. His sister, Mrs. Price, also a citizen of the county, is in her 91st year, a noble woman and the mother of Rev. J. F. Price. Uncle Harvey's ancestors came here in 1796 and located at a point 18 miles from Salem, their nearest trading point, 25 miles from Princeton and 35 miles from Shawneetown, and many were the times he covered these dreary trails when the family stood in need of any article of merchandise.

Another old timer who paid the Press office a pleasant call this week was Uncle John Fowler, who has passed his 88th milestone. He is a tall and heavy man and in good spirits as is his wont, and we hope he will live to round out the century. He was born on Crooked creek in this county, then Livingston, on the 15th day of September 1815. His forefathers came to this section in 1796 to 1800, uncle John not being certain as to the time. Uncle John was never married but he says accounts for his longevity. He is the uncle of Wm. Fowler, the banker.

I will until the 1st of January make first-class artificial teeth on best rubber plates, finely finished and a perfect fit for $7 for either upper or lower set; $14 for both, and I guarantee them to be fully equal in every way to any made in the county or state. Teeth extracted carefully and with as little pain as possible with perfect safety. I warrant all my fillings to stay in and my gold crowns to stay on. If you need Dental Work come and see me. Office on same hall with telephone office.

PRINCETON PRESBYTERY.

Princeton Presbytery of the C. P. church held its semi-annual meeting with Sharon congregation in Christian county, Oct. 6-8. The elders' and deacons' meeting held on Tuesday was an interesting session. Deacon T. M. Butler, of Fredonia was elected chairman. Some vital questions pertaining to church work were discussed. The lay members participated heartily in these discussions.

The opening sermon was preached by Rev. B. T. Watson of Madisonville, on the inspiration of the Bible. The reports of the ministers and the congregations were very encouraging and showed that Cumberland Presbytery is prospering within our bounds.

An excellent Sunday School Institute on Wednesday afternoon, in which an excellent program was very ably discussed. The Sunday school work was presented in a forcible manner and many excellent points were presented for the good of Sunday school workers.

The ladies held an interesting missionary service Wednesday night, a part of the program being a sermon on missions by Rev. J. L. Wyatt, D. D. Rev. A. C. Biddle preached a sermon to the children Thursday at 11 o'clock.

The next meeting of Princeton Presbytery will be held with Mt. Pleasant congregation at Sullivan, Union county, Ky., April 5-7, 1904.

The people of Sharon entertained the members of presbytery in a royal manner.

A SPELLING BEE.

On Friday evening, 7:30 p. m., in the School Hall the third and fourth grades, Miss Maggie Moore teacher, will invite their friends to an old fashioned spelling bee, and some other things of interest and edification more modern.

There will be a prize given to the best speller between 12 and 100 years of age. Also one for the very best between 1 and 12 years old.

The aged and young come out and exchange views and spelling. Over 12 years old, then you can help the grade get good things, 15¢ worth. Under 12, only a dime. Come.

Disastrous Fire at Joy.

The general store of L. Bisop at Joy was burned at 4 o'clock Tuesday morning, the 13th. The loss is about $2500, with no insurance. The stock consisted of dry goods, clothing, groceries, etc., and very little was saved. Joy is a prosperous little hamlet midway between Carrsville and Hampton on the road from Marion and Lola to Goleonda, and has a mill and several stores. The Press is sorry

SEASONABLE RECEIPTS.

DON'T IRON FLANNELS.

It is a mistake to iron flannels if pulled out evenly while on the line so they dry in good shape, and if, when dry, they are folded and put in the bottom of the clothes basket, and the clothes piled on them, they will be nice and smooth enough to suit anybody but a crank. Hot irons take the life out of flannel.

MARSHMALLOW CAKE.

Cream a cupful of butter with two of sugar, and when smooth and light, add the well beaten yolk of six eggs, a cup of milk and two cups of prepared flour, alternately with the stiffened whites of the six eggs. If the batter is too thin add a little more flour. Flavor with Manilla and bake in layer tins.

A DAINTY DESERT FOR WINTER.

Make some lemon gelatine in the usual way on the day before and when ready to serve place three lady fingers in each fruit saucer, put one heaping tablespoonful of the gelatine on top of them and cover with whipped cream.

PICKLED GREEN CORN.

Free the corn ear from all husks and silks, cut from the cob with a sharp knife and pack in jars, about two or three parts of corn to one of salt. Put a weight on it and keep the corn under the brine it makes. Use no water when putting up the corn. When wanted for use take out the desired quantity, soak over night and cook. Keep a cloth tied over the jar to exclude insects.

CHEESE PANCAKES.

Rasp some Parmesan cheese and put it upon a plate with a little water, or white wine, seasoning it with pepper and salt, grated nutmeg, minced parsley and chopped chives. Add to it a lump of butter the size of an egg. Put the dish over a stove; when cheese begins to melt stir it with a silver fork, meanwhile beat well the white of an egg (you may use the yolk if fancied) and stir it into the cream. Dip some sippets of bread into rich butter, fry them and lay them around the dish. Squeeze over the whole half a lemon and the juice of an orange and dust lightly with cayenne. Place tufts of green parsley here and there.—Louisa E. Smith.

FERTILIZER.

CARE OF THE HAIR.

The combing of the hair must be done with a large comb, with widely separated teeth, and not with a fine comb. Always use a shell comb and beware of bone and celluloid combs, which burn and eat the hair.

In the morning and at night after being combed, the hair must be brushed with a rather hard brush, the bristles of which can penetrate the hair without bending.

Abstain from using metal brushes, as they irritate the scalp and tear the hair.

Brush the hair always each lock separately, but from top to bottom, and make the brushing last until it becomes brilliant.

To sleep divide your hair into small plait, and braid and let it hang down your back.

Never be in a hurry when dressing your hair, and never pull or tug at it.

Avoid a too uniform style of head dress, too strained and too tight, which prevents the air from penetrating to the scalp, as this often provokes falling out of the hair.

Avoid heavy head dresses, the making of which necessitates a great quantity of hair pins and combs, as well as coiffures which imprison the hair by tightening it.—October Woman's Home Companion.

ULBS.

Bulbs do not do their best when planted immediately around the roots of trees, but they can be set close up to the stonework of the house with good effect. They will also form pleasing borders for board and other walks and can be made to follow the curved outline of a carriage drive. A narrow margin of lawn should be left between the driveway and the beds. In warm, gravelly soil on the south side of a house the bulbs will begin to grow sooner than if planted elsewhere. It is best to give plenty of sunlight, although if the north side of a dwelling is better in other respects, plant the bulbs there. They may not be so early in flowering, but perhaps this will be an advantage.—October Woman's Home Companion.

ONE OF GERMANY'S GOOD ROADS.

EUROPE'S HIGHWAYS

FOREIGN COUNTRIES MAKING A BIG PROFIT FROM GOOD ROADS.

Lack of Them in America Costing Us Many Millions Annually—Improvement of the Common Roads Not a Local Question.

It is claimed by some that the building of roads is strictly a local matter, that the benefits are entirely local and that the whole expense should be borne by the local communities. This is not the view taken in the most progressive countries of Europe. There the building and maintenance of roads are important functions of government. France, Germany and Switzerland are covered by a network of the finest roads in the world. As a result the western half of Europe is the pleasure ground of the world. The revenue derived from tourists is one of the principal sources of income for people of nearly all classes. But without these good roads this revenue could never be secured.

The aim of the people in those countries is to make their grand mountains, their beautiful lakes, their lovely valleys, their castles and monuments easily accessible by means of fine, hard, smooth roads.

What a contrast appears when we turn to our own country! We have the finest scenery in the world in the great mountains of the west, but it is practically inaccessible.

The aim of the people in those countries is to make their grand mountains, their beautiful lakes, their lovely valleys, their castles and monuments easily accessible by means of fine, hard, smooth roads.

The aim of the people in those countries is to make their grand mountains, their beautiful lakes, their lovely valleys, their castles and monuments easily accessible by means of fine, hard, smooth roads.

Some very soft, subdued shades in green are shown, but these are not likely to be generally worn. Leather tints are conspicuously shown, and the tan shades are certain to be seen in combination with emerald green and imperial red and purple. An exquisite Paris model for autumn wear shows a soft colored brown vignette skirt with a variegated band of brown velvet partially overlaid with an applique design in passementerie. The bodice is entirely inaccessible. Except as they get glimpses of it from car windows, the grandeur of our mountains and canyons and the beauty of our mountain lakes, streams and valleys are sealed to the general traveling public. And this will always be the case, long as steep, stony mountain trails are the only means of travel beyond the railway lines. Indeed much of our finest scenery cannot be reached even by such trails.

If the United States government, in co-operation with the states and local communities, would build great smooth highways, making the wonders and beauties of our great west easily accessible to tourists, in a few years the tide of travel would be turned westward. Not only would millions of dollars spent annually by Americans in Europe be kept at home, but other millions would be brought to our shores by tourists from foreign lands.

But the natural attractions of our country are not the only things which are made inaccessible by the lack of good roads. Our places of historic interest are mostly in the same category. Take, for instance, Monticello, home and tomb of the immortal Jefferson. Few Americans even know where it is, much less visit it. Monticello is only three miles from the city of Charlottesville, Va., which is on two great trunk lines. Why, then, is it so little known? Because three miles of about no led road can as be imagined lie between it and the railway station. One cannot travel over that narrow, steep, rough, muddy country road without a feeling of shame. At present an effort is being made by a small band of patriotic men and women to build what is known as the Jefferson Memorial road, to make Monticello accessible to the public, but only a beginning has been made, and they are finding it uphill work to raise funds to complete the task.

But, after all, the encouragement of travel is not the most important reason for the building of good roads. They are absolutely necessary for the prosperity and happiness of the people. The era of railroad building on a large scale is practically at an end. In the course of commercial and industrial development we have reached a point where the great problem of improving the common roads must be faced. We can no longer treat it as a local question. We have tried for three quarters of a century, and in nearly every section of the country the miserable results are apparent.

The good roads problem will never be solved locally. It is too vast. It can be solved only by the genius, the wealth, the labor and the patriotism of the whole people. A great national movement is necessary. In cooperation of the nation, the states, the counties and the local communities lies the solution of the problem.

Marketing Farm Products.

In report of the Industrial commission on the marketing and distribution of farm products the cost of hauling the products from the farms of the United States to the nearest market or railway station is given as $900,000,000 a year. The average haul to the nearest shipping point is twelve miles, the average cost 25 cents per ton per mile, or $3 a ton for the twelve miles. Few farmers take into consideration this item of expense. The most important factor in reducing the cost is good roads, for much larger loads can be hauled, much less time taken, and a great saving in horsepower and in the wear and tear on vehicles effected. Another important factor in favor of good roads is in being able to get produce to market during the time of high prices.

Don't Play Jokes on the Old Lady.

If Bailey of Britt, Ia., doesn't look out he will gain a national reputation as a colossal liar. Here is a whopper from the Britt Tribune:

"A Gurney lady took her false teeth out and laid them on the center table one night recently, when her husband, to play a joke on her substituted a horse shoe in place of them. She wore the horseshoe all the morning, complaining that her teeth didn't 'fit,' and she only discovered the change by the wide gash the toe nail made when she bit a biscuit."

BREAKS RECORD.

Couple Marry After Six Hours Acquaintance.

Owensboro, Ky., Nov. 5.—With an acquaintance of less than six hours, Mr. Samuel Bottom, of Louisville, and Miss Willie Alexander were married at the home of Prof. Wayland Alexander, on Mulberry street at 8 o'clock tonight. It is without a doubt the most romantic marriage that ever occurred in Owensboro.

Mr. Bottom was in the city on business, and as he is related to the Alexander family he called at their home to see them. Miss Alexander is a niece of Prof. Alexander, and was visiting there for a few days. It was at the dinner table she met her future husband.

After the meal was finished he said he would like to take a buggy ride and asked if any of the young ladies would accompany him. It was the young visitor who accepted the invitation.

The couple spent nearly three hours in riding about the beautiful lanes and woods of Daviess county in the autumn sunlight. By dusk they were engaged. They returned to the city and announced the fact to the Alexander family.

The couple said they wished to be married at once. Rev. E. H. Galby, pastor of the Walnut street Baptist church, was called in and after the county clerk had been secured to issue the license the ceremony was performed. The bride is a member of one of the most prominent families in this section of the State. The young couple are registered at the Hotel house tonight and will leave for Louisville in the morning.

Do Good & it Pays.

A Chicago man has observed that good deeds are better than nice talk. He is one of the other arts worthies who are helping him. You cannot pay him back. Most men appreciate a kind word and encouragement more than substantial help. There are persons in this community who might truly say "My good friend cheer up. A few doses of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will rid you of your cold, and there is no danger whatever from pneumonia when you use that medicine. It always cures. I know it for it has helped me out many a time." Sold by Woods & Orme.

TRIBUNE.

The drought is at last broken and farmers are busy preparing their land for wheat.

J. M. Walker and wife of Gladstone, visited F. L. Travis of this place Oct. 8th.

W. N. Travis and family have returned from Missouri. Travis reports a fine country, but he failed to get a house to live in, hence his early return.

J. E. Travis has moved to his property recently occupied by his father, W. N. Travis, who has moved to his farm on Piney.

Quite a strong wind and rain passed through this section on the 7th, blowing down some fences and unrooting Dr. Thos. Perkins' studio.

John N. Clark, of Marion, was in these parts on the 7th, taking mineral leases.

Working roads seems to be the order of the day in this vicinity since the rain.

There will be very little wheat sown in this community this year.

O, MR. BELKNAP.

O, Mr. Belknap, business man, Tell me, truly, if you can, Is the sermon of Munfordville, Like unto a sugared pill?

If we swallow all you say, Will the coating wear away, Leaving pardons to be showered On Messrs. Youtsey, Powers and Howard?

And if you gain the high position, Will you make a requisition, Bringing to our state for trial Those who've left it for awhile? At things commercial, interstate, I've heard it said you're simply great;

It should not then be brain dis-turbin'.

For you to get the best of Durbin You promise us a "new nobility" Composed of business and civility.

Nobles, with no time for play, Business, business, all the day.

You'd give us, too, an "ideal" state Business early—business late,

Business for our text and creed,

Business, business, business greed.

But when the state you "reawaken"

And she's pulsing, business shaken

Won't you give us martial rule And a big Berea school?

But, Mr. Belknap, business man,

You may be an "also ran"

And if, perchance, you are so un-lucky,

We'll still have left our "Old Ken-tucky."

O, Mr. Belknap, business man, You sure will be an "also ran,"

And Beckham's pace election day,

Will melt your frozen smile away.

Dieting Invites Disease

To cure dyspepsia or indigestion it is no longer necessary to live on milk and toast. Starvation produces such weakness that the whole system becomes an easy prey to disease. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure enables the stomach and digestive organs to digest and assimilate all of the wholesome food that one cares to eat, and is a never failing cure for indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach troubles. Kodol digests what you eat—makes the stomach sweet. Sold by all druggists.

THE CHILD'S ROOM.

In the Delineator for October there is a helpful article on furnishing the child's room. As the writer says, more than in any other room in the house the ordinary rules and conventions may be put aside for the purpose of introducing the element of interest. Among the practical suggestions for the playroom are a picture frieze, or a wainscot of picture paper—giving the history of Red Riding Hood and the Three Little Kittens or Kate Greenway's Months, or other children's tales—a toy chest covered with chintz, also interesting from a pictorial standpoint, and furniture adapted in height to the size of the child. In all the furnishings the child's taste should be considered as there is natural talent to be developed.

Japanese Washerwomen.

The Japanese rip their garments apart for every washing, and they iron their clothes by spreading them on a flat board and leaning this up against the house to dry.

The sun takes the wrinkles out of the clothes and some of them have quite a luster. The Japanese woman does her washing out of doors and her wash tub is not more than six inches high. The hardest worked washerwoman in the world are the Coreans. They have to wash about a dozen dresses for their husbands and they have plenty to do. The washing is usually done in cold water and often in running streams. The clothes are pounded with paddles until they shine like a shirt front from a laundry.

ROBBERY HAS COMMENCED.

Brenton county's feed district holds no such terror as a St. Louis barber shop, according to R. C. Coffman, of Calhoun, who was in St. Louis the other day. Coffman stated that soon after his arrival he entered a barber shop. There he says, he was pursued to avoid the dangerous germs and microbes of St. Louis by having his hair cut, shave, shampoo, massage and his shoes shined. The barber, he says, advised those as calculated to greatly improve his person. When all was finished at last Coffman inquired the price and says that he was informed that $7.30 was the usual price, but a stranger Coffman paid but $6.15.

"Why, I could get as much done at home for 50 cents," said Coffman in amazement.

"Well, you are not at home now; you are in the World's Fair city," Coffman says the barber replied, "and you had better cough up quick."

Several barbers gathered around him and Coffman became alarmed. He paid the money, he says, and reported the case. The police arrested Barton D. Blackford, whom Coffman identified as the man who had charged a exorbitant price. Coffman, however, did not remain in town to prosecute the case.

Run a Nail Through His Hand.

While opening a box J. C. Mount, of Three Mile Bay, N. Y., ran a ten penny nail through the fleshy part of his hand. He thought at once of all the pain and soreness this would cause me, he says and immediately applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm and occasionally afterwards. To my surprise it removed all pain and soreness and the injured parts were soon healed." For sale by Woods & Orme.

HISTORY AS IT HAPPENS.

Why does the democratic idea of equity, helpfulness, and self-helpfulness make its way with most difficulty among our educated classes of the college tried in view? Not altogether because a man with the priceless treasure of a complete education, formally signed and sealed over to him by the faculty of wise men, realizes that he has been elevated far above his fellow beings less fortunate, has been transmogrified into a creature of fair clay; for the full explanation we must look to the writers and teachers of history. How rarely do they tell the story as it was. How often do they gloss over the revolting tyrannies and vices of the cold and cruel kings, warriors, statesmen, ruling classes. How often do they take these things which, rightly presented, would rouse the indignant contempt of generous youth, and so present them that tyranny seems courage high spirit, robbery and murder seem the fascinating pastimes of men of noble mould, innocence, virtuousness and parasiteism seem the elegant modes of true "gentlemen," and "ladies."

Miswritten, misstated history is responsible for much of the failure to appreciate the grandeur of fair and equal dealing, for much of the sneaking admiration for repulsive evils tricked out in the bright garments of crude or perverted imagination.

There's nothing like doing a thing thoroughly. Of all the Salves you ever heard of Bucken's Arnica Salve is the best. It sweeps away and cures Burns, Sores, Bruises, Cuts, Boils, Ulcers, Skin Eruptions and Piles. It's only 25 cents and guaranteed to give satisfaction by Woods & Orme druggists.

OBITUARY.

Edgar W. Phillips, the subject of this sketch, was born in Crittenden county December the 25th, 1866, died October 1st, 1903. He leaves a wife and five children and several sisters and two brothers, besides a host of friends to mourn their loss.

Ed., as he was familiarly called, was a good husband, a kind and affectionate father, and a generous neighbor, always willing to lend a helping hand.

He professed religion about the year 1889 and lived a true Christian life until his death. While not a public man, yet by his amiable disposition he gained the love of those with whom he came in contact. He was ever ready to assist any one who might be in distress.

He was never known to do anything willfully wrong; no beggar was ever known to leave his door empty handed; there were few, if any, like him. Yet while it grieves us to part with him, we resign ourselves to the will of the Lord, knowing that He doeth all things well.
